Taking Advantage of Cutting Edge Food Technology

For generations, Brolite Products and its specialty ingredients have been coming up with solutions to difficult baking challenges.

Tortillas and flatbreads are some of the oldest baked goods known to man. Today, they're also the fastest growing segment in baking. Yet crafting just the right product for 21st century food markets takes skill, because it has to be versatile enough to work in sandwiches, wraps and more. That's where Brolite delivers. Our business is distilling the latest insights from baking science into technically excellent ingredients that deliver the characteristics and functionalities you need, including enhanced pliability or machinability, mold-resistance, low sodium, protein or fiber enhancements, and clean label.

innovation. quality. service.

For 90 years, Brolite has been a leading manufacturer of quality baking ingredients. We got our start culturing natural sours and butter flavors. Over time, we expanded our products and services to better partner with our customers. Today the Brolite product line includes a wide range of specialty ingredients that address the increasingly demanding requirements of wholesale food manufacturing - ingredients on the cutting edge between artisanal excellence and technical performance.

Brolite offers more than ingredients, though. We also take pride in our commitment to customer service. Our staff is passionate about delivering for our customers, whatever that takes. Our promise is to partner with you all the way, person-to-person.

We're proud to say that we help create some of the finest specialty blends around the country - and some of the best baked goods in the world.

We look forward to partnering with you. Just call!

At Brolite, we understand what it takes to produce reliably delicious foods that perform. We know baking like few others - because we come from the baking industry. Since 1928, we've been custom-creating specialty blends and unique flavors to meet the changing demands of the wholesale baking market. Today we're ready to help you take advantage of the world's expanding appetite for tortillas and flatbreads.
